

To Whom It May Concern:

The IAC strongly encourages full registration for the February 24-27, 2012 IAC Tutorials. Saturday registration has been provided to facilitate attendance by clinicians - name Gynaecologists. We however fully understand the situation of some colleagues in Hong Kong who may have to cover duty for some of the days, so that they may only be able to attend one or two days of the meeting. A new sign-up sheet for IAC tutorial is rolled out to address your needs.

In order to be fair to those who have already paid up full registration, the new sign-up registrants will need to purchase printed copy of program book with a minimal charge. Receipt and certificate of attendance will be issued on the day of attendance. Registrants with full registration will have online access to pre-event study materials, including high-resolution whole slide imaging of 40 unknown slide session cases and lecture notes and will receive a registration kit on the first day of the tutorial course which will include a printed copy of program book. Saturday registrants will also have access to course materials free of charge.

Different colored badges will be given to the different categories of registrants to facilitate appropriate entrance to the lecture theater. We hope you will understand the distinction we have to make between those who enter under this new sign-up option and those who have registered for full tutorial course and Saturday Day registration."

Warm regards,

Cheng Yue
